

Bruno Monnier - Culturespaces

Bruno Monnier is the President and founder of the private company Culturespaces,¹ which specialises in the management of historic monuments and museums, and the creation of art centres.

After working for the Havas Group, he joined the French Ministry of Culture in 1986, where he was responsible for the modernisation of the management of museums and monuments (the ‘Patrimoine 2000’ commission) and the reorganisation of the Château of Versailles (the ‘Grand Versailles’ project).²¹

In 1990, he created Culturespaces, which, thirty years later, is the leading European private cultural operator specialising in the management of historic monuments, museums, and art centres.

Career

Bruno Monnier graduated from the Paris Institute of Political Studies (Sciences-Po),¹ the Université Paris II Assas, and the HEC’s MBA programme,² and, fascinated by the history of art, he began his career in 1981 working for the Havas Group. In 1986, he joined the French Ministry of Culture, where he was responsible for the modernisation of the management of museums and monuments (the ‘Patrimoine 2000’ commission) and the reorganisation of the Château of Versailles. Entrusted to Bruno Monnier by Philippe de Villiers, the French Secretary of State for Culture and Communication,¹⁸ in October 1986,¹⁹ the ‘Projet pour Versailles’ mission led to the creation of an independent establishment—the Public Establishment of the Palace, Museum, and National Estate of Versailles—with a new visitor, promotional, and exhibition policy.¹⁶

Personal details

Born	27 March 1955 Kapellen (Belgium)
Nationality	French
Education	Paris Institute of Political Studies (Sciences-Po) Université Paris II Assas The HEC ’s ²¹ MBA The Ecole du Louvre
Specialisation	The management of historical monuments, museums, art centres, and temporary exhibitions. The creation and management of digital art centres.

In 1988, he left the Ministry of Culture and established Culturespaces, as a consulting and cultural engineering department in Havas. In 1990, Culturespaces, inspired by the Anglo-Saxon model in which most of the historic monuments and museums are managed by private organisations,²⁰ became a subsidiary of the Havas Group, Crédit National, and the Suez Group, which became Engie in 2008. Culturespaces advised local authorities, private owners, and State establishments on how to promote and manage their monuments and museums.¹⁶

In 1990,²¹ he signed his first contract with the City of Avignon for the management of the Palais des Papes, which ended in 2000.¹⁶ In 1992, the Académie des Beaux-Arts entrusted him with the entire management of the Villa Ephrussi de Rothschild in Saint-Jean-Cap-Ferrat, whose gardens he restored. In 1994, the Institut de France entrusted him with the management of the Jacquemart-André Museum in Paris, which had been closed for three years, and which he renovated and reopened in 1995 as a venue for regular temporary exhibitions. Local authorities outsourced public services and entrusted him with the management of historic monuments and museums.

He developed an efficient model¹⁵ for the cultural and economic management of cultural establishments, which prioritises visitor experience, does not receive public subsidies for operating costs, and provides funds for the restoration of buildings and collections.

In 2009, Bruno Monnier created the Fondation Culturespaces, which now operates under the aegis of the Fondation Agir Contre l'Exclusion. The Foundation promotes access to the arts and cultural heritage and fights against the cultural exclusion of certain children who are sick, handicapped, or suffering from poverty and social exclusion.³ In 2019, the Foundation welcomed around 7,500 children in Culturespaces' venues.

In 2013, he created with Culturespaces a new cultural venue in Aix-en-Provence, the city of his youth: he acquired and restored a historic monument, the Hôtel de Caumont, and transformed it into an art centre, which opened its doors to the public in 2015.⁴ The Art Centre holds two temporary exhibitions every year and attracts 350,000 visitors.

In 2015, he created with Culturespaces its first digital art centre in Paris: the Atelier des Lumières, in a former foundry in the 11th arrondissement,⁷ which he entirely restored and refurbished. The art centre opened its doors to the public on 13 April 2018 with the immersive digital exhibition 'Gustav Klimt'. It attracts more than a million visitors a year.

In parallel with his traditional activity of managing monuments, museums, and art centres, and organising temporary traditional exhibitions, Bruno Monnier decided to develop and create digital art centres in France and abroad, with immersive digital exhibitions, an activity for which he created an affiliate: CULTURESPACES DIGITAL®.

In 2017, he entered into a partnership with the Korean company T-Monet, in order to create a new digital art centre on the Island of Jeju in South Korea: the Bunker de Lumières,⁵ designed with expertise by CULTURESPACES DIGITAL® to hold its digital exhibitions. The digital art centre opened in 2018 and attracted 560,000 visitors in its first year.

In 2018, Bruno Monnier and Alain Juppé, former Prime Minister and Mayor of Bordeaux, signed a contract for the creation of a major digital art centre in Bordeaux's former submarine base, which is called the Bassins de Lumières and will be devoted to immense immersive digital exhibitions. It is opening its doors to the public in 2020.

Developed by Bruno Monnier and his team, CULTURESPACES DIGITAL® has become a unique cultural operator in the digital world, with specialised teams and comprehensive expertise, combining the design and creation of digital art centres, the technological competence for the production and presentation of exhibitions, a catalogue of immersive digital exhibitions, the presentation of classical, modern, and contemporary artists, and art centres abroad.

Over the last thirty years, Bruno Monnier has turned Culturespaces into a company that employs 450 people, whose consistent turnover has enabled the company to fund its own development. The company's fourteen venues in France attract 4.5 million visitors each year and it has become the leading private cultural operator in Europe and the fifth French operator after the Musée du Louvre, the Château of Versailles, the Eiffel Tower, and the Centre des Monuments Nationaux.
